

Glen View Club – Golf, Illinois

General Manager

Glen View Club is a premier private country club with a distinguished heritage and membership that offers programming and amenities for members of all ages. Established in 1897, the Club is located 15 miles north of Chicago in Golf, Illinois on 186 rolling acres traversed by a branch of the Chicago River. This family-centric club continues to grow its extensive family and youth activities to serve its members who come from many surrounding North Shore communities as well as the city. Members include many of Chicagoland's business and civic leaders and through the years have included two US presidents, a vice president and renowned amateur golfer, Chick Evans. The Club has hosted important championships in the early days of American golf, including the first Western Open and Western Amateur tournaments in 1899, the 1902 U.S. amateur and 1904 U.S. Open. The golf course today continues to be recognized as one of the finest in the Chicago area. As a leader in racquet sports, the Club just completed the rebuilding of its tennis facilities and recently hosted three American Platform Tennis Association (APTA) championships. Both the tennis and platform tennis facilities are best in class.

The Club's 18-hole par 72 golf course measures 6,800 and hosts 14,500 rounds annually. Amenities include: an indoor golf learning center with simulators; six clay tennis courts and one hard surface court; six platform tennis courts; professional-owned golf and tennis shops; an adult pool and children's pool; a facility for skeet and trap shooting; cross country trails; an ice skating pond; and a children's camp. Private and group lessons as well as junior programs are available for golf, tennis, platform tennis and swimming.

The Club is open year round; dining hours vary by season. The 40,000 square foot clubhouse features traditional informal and formal dining options are available in 13 dining areas with capacity for up to 300 guests. Gross revenue is $7.6 million with $2.3 million derived from food and beverage sales; approximately 40% of food and beverage sales are generated from private events. The Club has a membership of 570, with 385 being full privileged. During the height of the season, there are 150 employees; staff housing is available for 35 employees.

The General Manager serves as the Club's Chief Operating Officer with central responsibility for effectively integrating and managing the Club's varied operations consistent with the Club's mission, values, By-Laws, rules and policies. He/she is expected to effectively manage the human, financial, physical and other resources of the Club to consistently achieve high levels of member, family, and guest satisfaction, as well as financial and other goals established with the Board. He/she will work closely with the invested Board and Committees to proactively and thoughtfully bring innovative options and solutions via strategic thinking to the table and follow through to execution. Understanding and activating club programming and services to meet the contemporary interests of the membership will be a critical measure of success for the General Manager. The General Manager will engage with the Board to help develop and articulate a Strategic Plan for the Club.

The General Manager reports to the Club President and Board of Directors. He/she will lead the management team which includes the Clubhouse Manager, Executive Chef, Private Dining Director, Golf Course Superintendent, Racquet Sports Director, Finance Director, and Facilities Maintenance Director and will indirectly supervise all employees of the Club. Effectively and consistently articulating and nurturing a club-wide service culture reflective of The Glen View Club is highly critical.

The successful candidate will have proven experience and success leading and managing all facets of a private club and developing a talented team of high performing staff. Candidates must possess strong communication, organizational, operational and financial skills with a high degree of initiative and resourcefulness.

The General Manager must demonstrate an executive presence and unpretentious style with high personal, professional and ethical standards. Visibility and accessibility and enjoying being in front of the membership and representing the Club in the community are key attributes for the next General Manager

Compensation: The Club will offer a competitive compensation plan, along with standard benefits and perks.
